PROCEEDINGS OF THE
LINGUISTIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA
AT THE NINTH SUMMER MEETING
ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN, AUGUST 1-2, 1947

THE LINGUISTIC SOCIETY OF AMERICA held its Ninth Special Summer Meeting at the University of Michigan on Friday and Saturday, August 1-2, 1947, in conjunction with the session of the Linguistic Institute on the campus of the University.

Many members attending the meeting accepted the invitation to arrive somewhat in advance of the sessions or to stay on after their conclusion in order to attend the lectures and conferences on linguistic subjects which had been arranged for the days immediately before and after the meeting.

THE FIRST SESSION was held on the afternoon of Friday, August 1. President Albrecht Goetze called the meeting to order at 2:00 P.M. and presided throughout the session. The President appointed A. A. Hill as secretary pro tem. About 70 persons were present.

Provost James P. Adams welcomed the members of the Society on behalf of the University of Michigan, and President Goetze responded for the Society. President Goetze then appointed a Committee on Resolutions consisting of Einar Haugen as chairman and C. F. Hockett.

Papers 1-6 were presented and discussed. The session was adjourned at 5:30 P.M.

THE SECOND SESSION was called to order by President Goetze at 8:00 P.M. About 60 persons were present. Papers 7-11 were presented and discussed. The meeting was adjourned at 10:30 P.M.

THE THIRD SESSION was held on the morning of Saturday, August 2. The meeting was called to order by President Goetze at 9:00 A.M. Papers 12-16 were presented and discussed. The meeting was adjourned at 12:10 P.M.

THE FOURTH SESSION was called to order by President Goetze at 2:00 P.M. Papers 17-22 were presented and discussed.

Mr. Haugen gave the following report for the Committee on Resolutions, which was adopted by unanimous vote:

RESOLVED, that the members of the Linguistic Society attending the Summer Meeting at Ann Arbor, Michigan, August 1 and 2, 1947, wish to express their gratitude to the University of Michigan for furnishing its facilities; to the Provost of the University, Dr. James P. Adams, for his gracious and understanding welcome; to the Director and the Administrative Committee of the Linguistic Institute for their efficient arrangements; and to the Program Committee for its careful planning of the program.

RESOLVED, that the attention of the members of the Linguistic Society present at the Summer Meeting having been sharply drawn by a report of Professor E. H. Sturtevant to the series of major contributions made to the development of linguistic science by the American Council of Learned Societies over a period of more than twenty years, it is the desire of this body to express its deep feeling of indebtedness, appreciation, and thanks to the American Council of Learned Societies for these contributions and to assert its hope that in the future the mutual relationship between the Society and the Council may be as cordial as ever and increasingly productive.

RESOLVED, that the members of the Linguistic Society present at the Summer Meeting having heard a report by Professor Kenneth Pike on the teaching in practical phonemics carried on at the Summer Institute of Linguistics at Norman, Oklahoma, and on the impressive series of publications appearing from the pens of its staff members, it is the sense of this group that the work being done by the Summer Institute, as exemplified also by the papers presented by its students at this meeting, should be strongly commended by our Society and welcomed as one of the most promising developments in applied linguistics in this country.

The meeting was adjourned at 4:55 P.M.

The Secretary stated that the minutes of the Eighth Summer Meeting held at Ann Arbor on August 2-3 and of the Twenty-First Annual Meeting held at Chicago on December 30-31 had already been printed in Bulletin 20, which would reach the members in the near future. On motion, it was voted that reading of these minutes be dispensed with and that they be adopted.

The Secretary, Mr. Cowan, presented the following report, which was ordered received and filed:

The membership statistics are as follows: Starting 1946 there were 622 members, apart from Honorary Members, of whom two died during the year (Samuel H. Cross, Lucian Scherman); 17 presented their resignations, one effective at the end of 1945 (Carmelita Ortiz) and 16 effective at the end of 1946 (William Berrien, Ainsley M. Carlton, Helen S. Eaton, Robert H. Fife, N. O. Halvorson, William J. Hudson Jr., A. R. Jones, Dorothy Day Lawson, E. K. Mapes, F. H. Mautner, Helaine H. Newstead, Mabel Quay, Gladys A. Reichard, Simon Shannon, Eugene Tavenner, Lydia E. Wagner); 19 were dropped for non-payment of dues during 1945 and 1946. The net membership with which the Society started 1947 was therefore 584; the number of new members for 1947 is 85 (81 new members, 4 former members reinstated). The total membership for 1947, apart from Honorary Members, is 669, a gain of 47 as compared with 1946. There were 20 names on the list of Honorary Members in 1946; but of these, Carl Meinhof had died on February 10, 1944, and Henry Cecil Wyld had died in 1945. We regretfully record the death of three active members: Marie Paryski in 1945, G. Payn Quackenbos on Nov. 15, 1947, and Ernst Riess on June 12, 1947.

The domestic Library Subscriptions have increased from 144 to 148 by a gain of 11 and a loss of 7, and foreign subscriptions have increased from 87 to 112 by a gain of 60 and a loss of 35.

As Treasurer, Mr. Cowan presented and discussed the following report:

During the year the Executive Committee, acting by correspondence, elected nominees for membership; ratified the amendments to the constitution of the American Council of Learned Societies which were adopted by the Council on January 30 and 31, 1947; set the time and place of the Ninth Summer Meeting and the Twenty-Second Annual Meeting, and arranged the programs; authorized the sale of the Hermann and Klara H. Collitz Library to the Johns Hopkins University; appointed C. F. Voegelin as the Society's delegate to sit with the Executive Board of the American Anthropological Association on December 27, 1947, in Albuquerque, New Mexico; approved Kenneth L. Pike's nomination of John Kepke to serve as his proxy on the Executive Committee during the periods when Mr. Pike should be out of the United States.

The Executive Committee held a special meeting on August 2, 1947, in Ann Arbor. Present were Albrecht Goetze (President), E. H. Sturtevant as proxy for Myles Dillon, Hans Kurath as proxy for Norman McQuown, Kenneth Pike, and J. M. Cowan (Secretary); by constitutional provision also Y. R. Chao, C. F. Voegelin, C. C. Fries, W. F. Twaddell, Einar Haugen, Franklin Edgerton, Albert H. Marckwardt, and E. Adelaide Hahn; and Bernard Bloch and John Kepke by special invitation. The Committee appointed as the Administrative Committee of the Linguistic Institute for 1948 Hans Kurath (Director), W. F. Twaddell (Associate Director), Joseph Yamagiwa (Assistant Director), Hayward Keniston, C. C. Fries, and George S. Lane. The Committee voted to appoint a Committee on the Place of the Linguistic Institute to consist of three members, each to serve three years with overlapping terms, and a chairman appointed for one year, all terms to expire on August 1. E. H. Sturtevant was named chairman; others appointed were C. C. Fries with a term of three years, Einar Haugen with a term of two years, and George S. Lane with a term of one year.

The Executive Committee held a meeting on December 28, 1947, in the Hall of Graduate Studies at Yale University. Present were Albrecht Goetze (President), E. H. Sturtevant as proxy for Myles Dillon, John Kepke as proxy for Kenneth Pike, Norman A. McQuown, and J. M. Cowan (Secretary); Hayward Keniston, W. F. Twaddell, Franklin Edgerton, and E. Adelaide Hahn by constitutional provision; and Bernard Bloch by special invitation. The Committee informally considered reports of the officers and committees; elected to membership the new members for 1947; approved the recommendation of the Committee on Honorary Members presented below by Mr. Sturtevant; and prepared the two following specific recommendations to present to the Society:

1. That George O. Curme, a member since 1926, who is now Emeritus Professor of Germanic Philology, Northwestern University, be relieved from further payment of dues in accordance with Article II, Clause 6, of the Constitution.

2. That the Society approve the Executive Committee's action in instructing the Treasurer to set aside a sum of $1,000 from current funds, to be used for the manufacture of George L. Bolling's edition of the Iliad (by photo-offset process from perfect copy), or that the same amount be appropriated by the Society to be paid to any other organization guaranteeing publication of this work, this amount to revert to current funds of the Society in case the moneys are not used for the purpose for which they were appropriated.

This report was ordered to be received and filed. The recommendations of the Executive Committee were approved unanimously.

Mr. Bloch, Editor and Chairman of the Society's Committee on Publications, presented the following report, which was ordered to be received and filed:

During the year 1947, the Society issued the following publications:

LANGUAGE, Volume 23; 454 pages.

BULLETIN No. 20: Proceedings of the Ann Arbor Meeting 1946; Proceedings of the Chicago Meeting 1946; List of Members 1946; 51 pages.

LANGUAGE DISSERTATION No. 40: The Root and Its Modification in Primitive Indo-European, by Benjamin Schwartz; 67 pages.

LANGUAGE DISSERTATION No. 41: A Descriptive Grammar of Hausa, by Carleton T. Hodge; 64 pages.

A rough grouping of articles and reviews in Volume 23 of the journal yields the following distribution. The number of pages indicated for each subject is approximate only.

This volume of LANGUAGE is the largest ever published by the Society. It exceeds Volume 22 by 26%, Volume 21 by 55%, and the average of all volumes from 1 to 20 by 73%. The sole reason for this increase in the bulk of the journal is of course a corresponding increase in the number of acceptable contributions.

The following table shows the total number of pages in each volume of LANGUAGE so far published, with the average number for each five-year period up to 1944. Since the format of the journal was changed in 1941, increasing the size of the type-page by approximately one-fourth, the number of pages from that year on cannot be compared directly with the number in earlier years. An adjusted figure, representing the number of old-style pages to which the actual number is equivalent, is added in square brackets.

Members of the Society, and especially those who contribute to the journal, may be interested in knowing how long an interval, on the average, elapses between the receipt of a typescript and the final appearance of the work in printed form. Of the 245 articles that have appeared in LANGUAGE during the past eight years, 196 (80%) were published within eight months after I received them; only ten (4%) were required to wait for more than a year. The average interval between receipt and publication is a little more than six months (6.35).

The following table shows the interval (in months) between the date on which I received the final version of each typescript and the nominal date of the issue in which the article appeared. (Reviews are not included in these figures.)

INTERVAL	NUMBER OF ARTICLES	PERCENT OF ARTICLES	INTERVAL	NUMBER OF ARTICLES	PERCENT OF ARTICLES
2	7	2.8	9	14	5.7
3	25	10.2	10	14	5.7
4	32	13.0	11	5	2.0
5	48	19.6	12	6	2.4
6	41	16.7	13	5	2.0
7	22	8.9	14	2	0.8
8	21	8.5	15	3	1.2

In general, articles are published as soon as possible after they are submitted, and in the order of their receipt; but occasionally special factors interfere with this arrangement. Some contributions must be sent back to the authors to be retyped; others, because they have been unskillfully prepared or because they present special difficulties to the printer, require so many hours of editorial revision that I must put them aside until I can find time to work on them; and sometimes an article is held up because a particular number of the journal already contains articles of equal priority on closely related subjects. No article is delayed through mere negligence; in all cases where an article has had to wait a year or more for publication, the deciding factor has been either the difficulty of the typescript or the desirability of balancing, so far as possible, the contents of each number of LANGUAGE.

By vote of the Committee on Publications, I have been authorized to delegate a small part of my editorial responsibilities to Robert A. Hall Jr., a member of this Committee. Mr. Hall has generously undertaken to prepare for the press all book-length publications of the Society (Language Monographs, Language Dissertations, and Special Publications), thus relieving me of an onerous and time-consuming labor. He acts in this matter as my deputy; and his actions, by mutual understanding, are subject to my approval as the Society's Editor. I am sincerely grateful to him for assuming this part of my work, and hope that he will be able to continue his invaluable aid in supervising the Society's publications.

My thanks are due also to the other members of the Committee on Publications, to J. M. Cowan as Business Manager, to the scholars whom I have consulted during the past year, and to the staff of the Waverly Press.

Mr. Cowan read the following report for Mr. Kurath, Director of the 1947 Linguistic Institute at the University of Michigan:

The Linguistic Institute had a considerably larger staff and a larger number of courses in 1947 than during the War years, and the enrollment of students showed a marked increase over previous years. There were 21 instructors on the staff of the Institute, 10 of them from institutions other than the University of Michigan.

The Institute offered 30 courses, ranging from introductory courses with large enrollments to highly specialized courses intended for advanced graduate students and for scholars with the doctorate. Descriptive linguistics, linguistic geography, and new methods of language teaching were well represented in the program; historical and comparative linguistics, which had been slighted during the War years, were again given more adequate attention.

One hundred eighty-one different students were enrolled in Institute courses, a fairly large number of them in two or three courses. It is very gratifying to know that students from many institutions in which advanced degrees in linguistics are awarded were represented in our student body: California, Chicago, Columbia, Harvard, Iowa, Minnesota, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Wisconsin, Yale. We hope that institutions of this type will continue to encourage their graduate students in linguistics to attend the Linguistic Institute in future years.

There were also in attendance, as guests of the University of Michigan, seven scholars who already had their doctorate. The Administrative Committee of the Institute hopes that some provision can be made to enable a larger number of young scholars to take advantage of the unusual opportunities for advanced study and research offered by the Institute.

As in previous years, weekly Luncheon Conferences were held in which members of the Institute presented papers or special problems for discussion. The number of Evening Lectures was increased to 15. Many of these lectures were given by members of the Institute, but a number of prominent scholars from various institutions were brought to the campus for special lectures. I think that all members of the Institute felt that the conferences and the lectures were highly stimulating. Discussion was invariably lively, sometimes even exciting.

The University of Michigan will sponsor another session of the Linguistic Institute in 1948, jointly with the Linguistic Society of America and the American Council of Learned Societies.

Mr. Cowan read the following report for Mr. Hans Kurath, chairman of the Standing Committee on Research:

Two manuscripts have been considered by the Committee; their publication under the auspices of the Linguistic Society of America has been recommended:

1. Robert A. Hall Jr., Descriptive Italian Grammar
2. Zellig S. Harris, Methods in Descriptive Linguistics

Hall's manuscript is ready for the printer. Harris' manuscript should be carefully edited before it goes to press.

Both books are important. Hall's is the first detailed descriptive grammar of a well-known language prepared in accordance with the new descriptive technique. Harris' book represents the first consistent exposition of the technique (or one technique) of analyzing and describing languages from a structural point of view.

Mr. Cowan read the following report for Mr. Fries, chairman of the Committee on the Free List:

For the committee to deal with the recommendation of foreign scholars for the 'free list' of LANGUAGE, I should like to report, that it is our feeling that we ought not to make recommendations to the Executive Committee until we have had the time to do a bit more investigating. It would be my plan to notify the members at the annual meeting that the revival of the list is contemplated and invite recommendations. These recommendations should be accompanied by as complete a statement as possible concerning the person recommended, especially his scholarly work on the one hand, and present position and circumstances on the other. For too many of the names we now have there is very little up-to-date information in our hands. We wish to have the recommended names and then to furnish in our report to the Executive Committee a list of those for whom we can make good cases.

Mr. Sturtevant presented the following report for the Committee on Honorary Members:

The members of the committee appointed to consider persons to be recommended for honorary membership have considered numerous possible candidates, and unanimously recommend the election of the following persons at the annual meeting in 1947:

Alfred Ernout, professor in the Sorbonne, aged 67
Kazimierz Nitsch, professor in Cracow, aged 74
Sten Konow, professor in Oslo, aged 80.

It seems unnecessary to rehearse the scholarly record of any of these men. It would, of course, be easy to submit a longer list, but the constitution sets the limit at three.

This recommendation has the approval of the Executive Committee.

On vote these three scholars were unanimously elected to honorary membership.

Mr. Twaddell gave the following report for the Society's delegates to the American Council of Learned Societies:

Your delegates attended the annual meeting of the American Council of Learned Societies at Rye, New York, January 30-31, 1947. The Secretary, Mr. Cowan, acted as proxy for Mr. Sturtevant. The sessions were for the most part devoted to the adoption of a new constitution for the Council. Your delegates participated in the discussion and voted favorably upon the final adoption. Mr. Cowan gave a report to the Council on current activities carried on under the special Linguistics Research Fund which resulted from the activities of the Intensive Language Program.

Mr. Cowan, who is director of the Linguistic Research Fund, and secretary of the Council's Committee on the Language Program, reported that the Council had, upon recommendation of this committee, appropriated $3,320 to enable R. I. McDavid Jr. to complete the field work for the Linguistic Atlas of the South Atlantic States. Mr. Cowan reported also that from the same funds the Council had appropriated $3,000 to be used as fellowships at the 1948 session of the Linguistic Institute.

Mr. Kepke, as delegate to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, presented the following report:

I have no report to make on our relations with the American Association for the Advancement of Science except as that organization sponsored the formation of the Inter-Society Committee for a National Science Foundation.

Early in the year, E. H. Sehrt and I were named as the Society's representatives on that Committee. A written report on its organization meeting on Sunday, February 23, 1948, was made to our Executive Committee under date of February 25. On March 24 I reported by mail to Mr. Goetze how I had voted on questions submitted to members of the Inter-Science Committee by its Executive Committee, in anticipation of hearings before committees of Congress.

An account of the activities of the Inter-Society Committee appears in SCIENCE for December 5, pp. 529-33.

A meeting of the entire committee was scheduled for December 28 in Chicago. I was not able to be there. A report on the meeting will presumably appear in SCIENCE in the near future.

The President then called for nominations. The Secretary read the report received from Mr. Hoiyer as chairman of the Nominating Committee, presenting the original slate of the committee:

President: Hayward Keniston, University of Michigan

Vice-President: Murray B. Emeneau, University of California

Secretary-Treasurer: J. Milton Cowan, Cornell University

Editor: Bernard Bloch, Yale University

Committee on Publications (1948-50): Robert A. Hall Jr., Cornell University

Executive Committee (1948-49): Eugene Nida, New York City, and George Lane, University of North Carolina

Nominating Committee (1948-50): Carl Voegelin, Indiana University

As a result of the mail ballot one additional candidate was nominated: for the vacant position on the Committee on Publications (1948-50): Giuliano Bonfante, Princeton University. All nominees had signified their consent to serve if elected. There were no nominations from the floor. It was voted that the Secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for all nominees except those for member of the Committee on Publications (1948-50). Tellers were appointed and ballots distributed; upon count Mr. Hall was declared elected.

President Goetze appointed a Committee on Resolutions consisting of E. Adelaide Hahn (chairman), George S. Lane, and Robert A. Hall Jr.

Mr. Graves reported on the Russian Translation Project and on the procurement of Russian books, both projects of the American Council of Learned Societies.

Mr. Keniston moved that the Society send greetings to Mr. Bloomfield. Upon vote the motion was unanimously approved.

President Goetze called THE FIRST SESSION to order at 11:00 A.M. and presided throughout. About 70 persons attended. Papers 1-3 were presented and discussed. Adjournment was taken at 12:30 P.M.

THE JOINT SESSION with the American Philological Association was called to order by Mr. Sturtevant at 2:00 P.M. Papers 4-8 were presented but in accordance with the practice of the American Philological Association they were not discussed. On motion by Mr. Edgerton, an exception was made in the case of Paper 6. Adjournment was taken at 3:15 P.M.

President Goetze called THE SECOND SESSION to order at 3:40 P.M. and presided throughout. About 100 persons attended. Papers 9-14 were presented and discussed. Adjournment was taken at 5:30 P.M.

THE JOINT SESSION with the American Philological Association and the Archaeological Institute of America was called to order at 8:15 P.M. An address of welcome was given by George L. Hendrickson, Emeritus Professor of Latin in Yale University. Adjournment was taken at 9:00 P.M. The Society then gathered separately, with the Secretary presiding, to hear the Presidential Address by Mr. Goetze, Akkadian and Its Dialects. Adjournment was taken at 10:30 P.M.

THE THIRD SESSION convened at 9:30 A.M. on Tuesday, with President Goetze presiding. About 80 persons were present. Papers 15-19 were read and discussed. The session was adjourned at noon.

THE FOURTH SESSION convened at 2:00 P.M., with President Goetze presiding. About 75 persons attended. Papers 20-23 were presented and discussed. Papers 24 and 25 were presented by title only.

Mr. Edgerton moved that greetings be sent to Mr. Bolling from the meeting. The motion was unanimously approved.

Miss Hahn, for the Committee on Resolutions, presented the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

The Linguistic Society of America, having completed a well-attended and fruitful meeting, hereby extends hearty thanks to those who have contributed so effectively to its success, namely:

Professor Harry M. Hubbell, in charge of the local arrangements concerning housing, meals, and meetings, who provided so competently for the well-being of all;

Professor Howard Comfort, who arranged for the joint session of the Linguistic Society of America with the American Philological Association;

The local committee representing the Linguistic Society, consisting of Professor Bernard Bloch and Professor Ralph L. Ward;

And finally, Yale University itself, which not only provided convenient rooms for sessions, but also offered comfortable dwelling-quarters in its dormitories, and excellent meals in its dining-hall, and which further augmented its gracious hospitality by its invitation to the tea following the Linguistic Society's final session.

The meeting was adjourned at 4:45 P.M.

After the end of the final session, members of the Linguistic Society were invited by Yale University to attend a tea in the Art Gallery from 4:00 to 5:30 P.M. At 6:30 P.M. members of the Society attended a Joint Dinner with the American Philological Association and the Archaeological Institute of America in the University Dining Hall. After the dinner the Archaeological Institute presented a Symposium on Homeric Problems.

Secretary

[Two omissions in Bulletin 20.4 (1947) have been brought to the Secretary's attention. At the Eighth Summer Meeting, T. A. Sebeok presented a paper on Recent Research in the Finno-Ugric Field, and R. I. McDavid Jr. presented a paper on Postvocalic /r/ in South Carolina (discussed by Kurath). Accordingly, the total number of papers presented at this meeting was 20, not 18 as reported in the Bulletin.]
